Rev. Hight Confesses Two Murders Declaring Both "Acts of Mercy"

SUSPECTED OF KILLING YOUNG GIRL

Ina Pastor Breaks Down Under Long Grilling; Slew to "Relieve Their Suffering"

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Sept. 22—A complete confession that he poisoned his wife and William Sweetin "because they were suffering and he wanted to put them out of their misery" was made today by Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, Ina Methodist pastor, after a night of grilling at the hands of State's Attorney Frank Thompson.

The minister broke under the strain of the fire of questions shortly before dawn after he had been confronted with the testimony of a coroner's chemist that arsenic also had been found in the vital organs of Sweetin.

Immediately after the confession efforts of the prosecutor were directed to solving the circumstances of a third mysterious death, that of an unnamed high

MT. VERNON, Ill., Sept. 22—The text of Rev. Hight's confession follows:

"While I was temporarily beside myself with grief at my wife's condition, she suffering intensely and believing she was surely dying and wishing to save her, I, early Wednesday morning, September 10, put some arsenic in her coffee. My sole thot was to ease her pain in her dying moments.

"I placed some arsenic in a glass of water and gave it to Wilford Sweetin. He was ill in bed and I was sure he was dying. My motive was to make his last moments easier."

NEW YORK BROKERS ATTEMPT TO SWINDLE MOTORISTS HERE

Many Coshocton-co Ford owners have received in the last week a sheet of crisp bond paper, on which is printed an invitation to the recipient to invest in "American Units" of Ford of Canada. With this attractively decorated paper comes a coupon to be filled out with the units desired, and a circular describing the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., its history, profits and possible future.

The Ford owner is given the "privilege" of subscribing for not less than five or more than 50 "American Units," at $6 per unit.

The "special subscription privilege" papers were sent out by W. C. Montayne & Company, 15 Broad St., New York City.

A local banker today called attention to the fact that, while this offer can scarcely be called a fraud, it is an attempt to pass off stock at much higher than the market price.

One hundred "American Units" Ford Motor of Canada purchased thru W. C. Montayne & Company at $6 a unit would be $600, one share, which is equivalent to 100 units offered by Montayne & Company, sold during the market week of September 12 for $457, commission included.

Thus it can be seen that the difference between the Montayne price, $600, and the cost to any broker, purchasing directly, $457, would be $143.

In other words, for $457 any Ford owner could purchase one share of Ford Motor Car of Canada, while to buy its equivalent from Montayne & Co. in the form

Autumn Begins Tomorrow at 2:59 a. m. When Sun Crosses Equator

The intermittent rain storms which have marked the past few days are blamed on the advent of the autumnal equinox.

Twice each year the sun is directly perpendicular to the earth's axis, making days and nights equal in length. The change in temperature and earth currents caused by the sun reaching that position as a rule brings storms, known as equinoctial storms.

The autumnal equinox is due at 2:59 a. m. Tuesday, according to the World almanac. From then on the days will gradually get shorter, and the heating influence of the sun's rays will diminish.

Difference in the days' length are only a matter of minutes for a while, but at the end of a month there is almost a whole hour's difference.

Cyclone Kills 29 in Mid-West, Injures Hundreds; Loss Enormous

DEATH TOLL LIKELY TO BE HEAVIER

Many Sections of Four States Struck by Tornado Unheard from as Wires Are Down

CHICAGO, Sept. 22—Twenty nine known dead, two missing, hundreds injured and property damage which will run into millions was the toll of the tornado which swept the mid-west Sunday, according to partially complete reports reaching here over crippled wires from the devastated areas of Minnesota, Wisconsin, the Dakotas and Illinois, at noon.

Twenty two were reported killed at Thorp, Wis., which was reported virtually annihilated by the cyclone.

At least six more are known to be dead at Ashland.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22 — A death toll variously estimated at from eight to 25, scores injured and property damage which will run to hundreds of thousands of dollars, were left today in the wake of a cyclonic storm, which swept the mid-west yesterday while the thermometers tumbled 40 degrees within five hours.

Six are dead and an unknown number injured near Thorp, Wisconsin. At Milwaukee one man is dead and his five companions were recovering from a battle with the waves of Lake Michigan, which, lashed to fury by the gale, scuttled their yacht, at anchor in the harbor there.

Reports of other dead at Ashland, Wis., were unconfirmed this morning. Meager information reaching here over crippled wires indicated that with the re-establ-

BRIDGE AND ROAD REPAIRS ORDERED BY COMMISSIONERS

The board of county commissioners has approved the engineer's estimate for repairing bridges 3 and 18 on Road 27-A and Bridge 1 on Road 279-A in Franklin tp. Bridges 3 and 18 were ordered repaired by force account, the total cost not to exceed $25. The same estimate was given for the repair at Bridge 5 on Road 41 in Bethlehem-tp.

The surveyor was ordered to prepare plans and estimates for the improvement of Roads 6-C and 6-D, from the Taylor bridge to the Chalfants church, a distance of approximately 7,000 feet, with gravel; also 1,000 feet south from the John McCoy residence on Road 6; Road 3-G in Pike-tp, beginning at the M. E. church in West Carlisle and extending eastward a distance of 2,200 feet; Road 131-A, Jefferson-tp, approximately five-tenths of a mile; Road 51-B, Bedford-tp, north 1,600 feet from the West Bedford school house; Road 6-B, Virginia-tp, 2,000 feet; Road 3-C in Bedford-tp, near the Marshall school house.

The surveyor was ordered to proceed with the improvement of Road 3-C, Bedford-tp, with John Lease as foreman. The total cost of this work is not to exceed $1,052.

Nearly all of the improvements are to be made with gravel. One, 6-B in Virginia tp, is to be repaired with stone.

APPENDIX REMOVED

Health Officer Closes One Room at Sycamore

Prevalence of Fever Leads to Order; Pupils Must Remain in Homes, Is Ruling

A case of scarlet fever, developed in the school room, caused the closing of the Sycamore first grade room Monday morning by Glenn E. Smith, city health commissioner.

All of the children were ordered to go home, and stay there, under penalty of quarantine. Smith declared that if any of the children were permitted to leave the house, or associate with outsiders, their home would be put under strict quarantine.

He declined to reveal the name of the child whose illness brot about the closing of the school room.

Several children are in the city hospital at the present time suffering from fever, and Smith declared that every precaution must be taken to prevent further spread of the disease.

Shepler Funeral Services Held This Afternoon

Funeral services were held this afternoon in the Shepler Evangelical church for Mrs. Laura A. Shepler, aged 65, of Millcreek-tp, who died last Saturday morning at the City hospital from cancer of the stomach. Burial was made in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Shepler was born and reared in Millcreek-tp.

She was a member of the Shepler Evangelical church.

Her husband preceded her to the grave several years ago.

Mrs. Shepler had been confined to the City hospital since August 26 this year suffering from cancer.

There are surviving her aged mother, Mrs. Bickel, Millcreek-tp, two children, Mrs. Joseph Casey, of Clark, and Mrs. Quincy Stewart, of the late residence; the following brothers and sisters, William Bickel, near Warsaw, James and John Bickel, of Millcreek-tp; Josiah, of Baltic, Mrs. G. W. Beaird and Mrs. T. D. Merrell, of Millcreek-tp, Mrs. Cal Haxton and Mrs. John Eagle, the latter from Baltic.

SOLICITORS HALED INTO COURT MON.

Rebuked by Mayor for Not Taking Out Permit; Coupons Worthless Here

Either misrepresentation by the seller or a misunderstanding on the buyer was responsible for the arrest of one of three young magazine salesmen who were attempting to dispose of their wares among Coshocton housewives.

According to Mrs. H. A. Coffman of Roscoe, who filed the complaint, a coupon was given with each magazine sold, which, if taken to a local store would be exchanged for a dress pattern. Several visited the store named and found that no arrangements for such an exchange had been made with the store management.

One of the salesmen was located and taken to police headquarters where he declared that it was only a mistake on the women's part. The coupons would have to be sent to the head office in New York city in order to get the pattern for the present, but that later arrangements would possible be made whereby some local store would handle them, he said he told his buyers.

He was then released and all three appeared before Mayor H. B. Heaton Monday morning. The mayor decided that they had had no intent to defraud and released them, at first advising them, however, that they should have taken out a permit before starting work. Their names were not taken by the mayor, as no formal charge was brot against them.

Windows Broken by Pebbles from Wheels of Autos

The large window in the Puritan restaurant was broken Monday morning when a small stone was flipped from a tire of an auto, passing over a pile of gravel in the street in front of the new Chacos Bros. building.

A few days ago windows in the Coshocton hotel were broken by pebbles thrown from the wheels of passing automobiles.

The window broken out of the Puritan restaurant is a valuable one. It is insured.

Dr. Dillon's Son Dangerously Ill

Lester Dillon, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Dillon of Coshocton, became suddenly delirious at his home in Akron Sunday night and was taken to a hospital there. He has been suffering from mastoid disease more or less since a boy, his father says. He will undergo an operation at the hospital Tuesday.

His sister, Ruth Ross, is at his bedside, and his mother will go to Akron today.

Slight hopes are held for his recovery.

Boy's Forehead Cut When Cars Collide Sunday

Clarence Almack, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Almack, of near Keene, received a deep cut in his forehead Sunday evening at 5:30 o'clock when the Ford car in which he and his parents and his brothers and sisters were riding and another automobile, the name of driver of which could not be learned, came together north of Jack Randles bridge.

The Ford car was badly damaged.

Immediately after the collision, W. Redding, this city, who was at the melon farm, north of the bridge, ran to the scene of the wreck and picked up the injured boy. Mr. Redding removed the boy to Dr. J. W. Shaw's office where the physician dressed the injuries.

No one else was hurt.

Riegel Promises to Speak Here at Grange Meet

As an added attraction to the series of free entertainments to be given in Central high auditorium, this fall and winter, under the joint auspices of the county grange and the vocational agriculture department of Coshocton high school, State Director of Education Vernon M. Riegel, of Columbus has been engaged by State Master Harry A. Caton as one of the speakers.

The first of the series of programs will be given Friday evening, September 26, when C. G. Williams, director of the Ohio agricultural experiment station, at Wooster, will speak.

Nebo Institute Well Attended Despite Rain

Despite the rain a large sized crowd attended the Mt. Nebo Sunday School institute at the Mt. Nebo church Sunday afternoon. Music was furnished by the Mt. Nebo church choir.

Following addresses by Paul Purcell, Dr. D. C. Westfall and S. E. Bell of Walhonding the meeting was thrown open for discussion of Sunday School problems by the county president, M. D. Custer of Coshocton. Plans are being formulated for a drive to interest every family in the Mt. Nebo district in the Sunday school.

All Grocers Are Required to Get Dealer's License

Despite repeated explanations by Mayor H. B. Heaton there are still some who do not thoroly understand just whom are affected by the ordinance requiring milk dealers to take out permits. All grocers handling milk are as much responsible as dairymen, and must obtain permits before being allowed to sell milk.

The fee is only 50 cents a year, this amount being fixed by the state board of health.

IS DISMISSED

Miss Thelma Aronhalt, 248 North Third-st, has been dismissed from the City hospital. She had been confined to that hospital for the past several days following an operation for the removal of her appendix. She is getting along nicely.

Thanks All Who Helped in Entertainment of M. E. Ministers During Visit

A copy of a resolution, drawn up during the last minutes of the Northeast Ohio Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here last week, thanking the citizens of Coshocton, and all others connected with the work, for the hospitality and aid given the conference, was received Monday by Dr. W. B. Winters, pastor of Grace M. E. church.

It reads as follows:

"The North East Ohio Conference has been superbly entertained at the thirteenth annual session in Grace church, Coshocton, Ohio. The heartiness with which this city was thrown open to us when we arrived has been continued in a most cordial hospitality thruout the days of the conference sessions. The handgrasp of the mayor of the city was the beginning of similar evidences of the fact that Coshocton was glad to have us here for our annual gathering. Our hosts and hostesses of both Protestant and Catholic homes, hvae been most kind in their attention to our every need. The Methodist Protestant church and the Church of Christ with the Y. W. C. A., the Country Club, and the luncheon clubs of Coshocton have provided most generously for the special banquets and the regular meals connected with our stay in the city. We are deeply grateful to all who have cared for the details of our entertainment in such a splendid manner. The decorations of the church were wonderful, displaying a skill and taste of a very high order.

"To our royal hosts, Dr. W. B. Winters, his good wife and family

Miss King Back from Reunion of Civil War Vets

Miss Isabelle King returned to her home in this city last evening after attending the joint regimental reunion of Civil War veterans held at New Philadelphia this week. Miss King was elected treasurer for life, as was Mrs. Elizabeth Flynn of New Philadelphia to the office of secretary.

The reunion next year will be held at Uhrichsville.

Autos Collide; Both Damaged

A Ford touring car driven by John Dill Elson, and a Dodge touring car driven by John Bown collided at the intersection of Third and Chestnut-sts about two o'clock Monday afternoon, resulting in serious damage to both cars.

According to witnesses of the accident, Bown was going south on Third-st and Elson west on Chestnut-st. Elson's car crashed into Bown's car just at the street marker, knocking the Dodge clear to the curb at the southwest corner of the street. Elson's car landed headed north on Third-st.

The body, fenders and running board of the Dodge were completely demolished. The front axle on Elson's car was bent, one tire blown out, the front spring broken, and other minor damages.

NEGRO SHOOTS TWO AT NEWCOMERST'WN

One Woman in Serious Condition at Hospital; Affair Occurs at Colored Dance

Mrs. R. H. Hill, colored, Clow-av, Newcomerstown, was slowly recovering at the City hospital, Monday from the effects of being shot in the abdomen by a .38 calibre revolver bullet, said to have been fired by Charles Allen, colored, Newcomerstown late last Saturday night in the community hall in Newcomerstown.

Mrs. Mose Collins, also of Newcomerstown, was grazed in the abdomen by the same bullet which struck Mrs. Hill. Her injury is not regarded serious.

Mrs. Hill is expected to recover altho her condition is regarded as serious.

It was learned from Newcomerstown Monday that there had been a colored dance held at the colored community hall at the time of the shooting. The shooting was a result of an argument, exact details of which are unknown to authorities.

Allen is being sought by New-

GIRL DYING FROM SHOTS COP FIRED

Dover, O., Sept 22 — Mildred Staneart, 21, is dying today in Twin City hospital, Dennison. She was fatally shot, by mistake, about midnight Saturday by Patrolman E. L. Harmon, who thot she and her companion, W. P. Leute, were dynamiters intent upon destroying Harmon's home. Besides suffering from 32 buckshot wounds in her arms, chest and other parts of her body, Miss Staneart is a victim of pneumonia. Leute was slightly injured when a number of buckshot lodged in one of his hands.

Last Monday and Thursday nights bombs were placed alongside Patrolman Harmon's home, apparently the work of enemies seeking to wreck the officer's residence.

Harmon was on guard with a single-barreled shotgun when Miss Staneart and Leute drove their auto onto Harmon's driveway for the turning. When Leute threw a lighted match into the yard in the direction of the house, Harmon that it was the act of would-be dynamiters hurling a bomb and he opened fire on the couple.

Mysterious Mr. Means Is Again in Limelight

Daugherty Shows Statement Repudiating His Testimony; Statement False, Says Means

COLUMBUS, Sept. 22—Repudiation of his testimony before the senatorial committee investigating Harry M. Daugherty's conduct of the department of justice was contained in a statement signed by Gaston B. Means, formerly of the secret service, and made public today by Daugherty.

Means, who has been described as the star witness of the Wheeler-Brockhart committee, declared his testimony before the committee was "nothing but a tissue of lies."

Tracewell to Teach Scouts Fire Fighting

If you see the fire wagon making a hurry up run out in the direction of Cambridge Road Friday afternoon, don't be alarmed. The chances are that it will be the firemanship instructions that Chief Tracewell is giving the Boy scouts.

Every other month Tracewell who is the expert examiner in firemanship merit badge, takes a crowd of boys to some outlying fire box, instructs them how to send in the alarm, couple up and use the hose; then the boys set fire to a pyramid of boxes that they have built and send in the alarm. When the truck arrives, on the orders from the chief the firemen get off and the boys couple up the hose and extinguish the blaze.

Boys who have taken the test are eligible to call should the city ever have a serious conflagration. Eighteen scouts to date, have passed the examination. Only first class scouts may take the examination but all scouts are invited to attend the demonstration. The test will be given at the fire-house near the Country Club Friday afternoon at 4:30.

Airmen Hop Off for San Diego

MUNICIPAL FIELD, TUCSON, Ariz., Sept 22 — The round-the-world flyers hopped off here this morning at 7:30 o'clock for their 235 mile jump to San Diego, Cal. The weather was cool and the flyers got off to a pretty start with Lieut. Lowell H. Smith in the lead.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept 22 — The United States army globe circling flyers in their dash for San Diego were rapidly approaching California soil shortly before 5 o'clock this morning.

The flyers passed over Maricopa, Ariz., at 7:40 and flew over Yuma, Ariz. at 8:48.

The weather is clear along the route, according to reports received here.

Flyers Are Only 100 Miles from Starting Point

ROCKWELL FIELD, North Island, San Diego, Cal., Sept. 22.—America has all but completed its task of girdling the globe by air. One more hop of 100 miles to Cloverfield, Santa Monica, and the round-the-world flight will be an accomplished fact.

The three U. S. cruisers which set out last March 17 from Santa Monica to string an aerial lane around the earth landed here safely at 10:30 today, after a 275-mile jump from Tucson, Ariz., tomorrow or Wednesday, dependent upon whether the motors are changed here, the flyers will leave for Cloverfield.

Lieut. Lowell Smith, flight commander, was the first of the trio to land. He was followed an instant later by Lieut. Nelson in the New Orleans and Lieut. Wade in the Boston second.

Hearing Is Held on Petition to Change a Road

A hearing relative to the petition of Day Lawrence and others for the change of a road into the lands of Henry F. Boyd in Keene-tp was had before the county commissioners Monday morning.

Action was deferred indefinitely to allow the commissioners to make further investigation.

Lawrence asks that the road be changed in order to avoid a steep grade on the present road.

REGULARS DROP INTO FOURTH PLACE IN LAST LEAGUE GAME

Hilltoppers Win, 4 to 1 Closing League Season; Series Begins Sunday

The Coshocton Regulars slipped down and finished fourth as a result of their game with the Barnesville Hilltoppers at Lake Park, Sunday afternoon. Barnesville won 4 to 1.

Harley Bruce's slants were puzzling and only four hits were garnered off the big boy's offerings. Witt, Greber and the two Cain boys, Homer and Emmett got the other two hits. Homer got the only extra base hit for the Regs. It was a three sacker.

Ryan started the contest for Coshocton, but the down staters found the right hander in the first frame and secred a run. He was touched rather hard in the fifth and Pilot Robertson sent in Orve Rea to finish the game. Rea was effective and allowed but one bingle in four and one-third innings.

With two outs in the first inning Melchiorio hit the ball on the nose for three sacks. The ball floated to deep right. Conner followed with a two sacker over Atchinson's head in center. Atchinson misjudged the ball. The hit scored Melchiorio.

With two outs in the second round, Gordan and Bruce each singled, but Bero was an easy prey for Emmett Cain to Stiff. The Hilltoppers put the game on ice in the fifth with a trio of counters.

Stricker led off with a single to right. Melchiorio attempted to sacrifice Stricker to second but Ryan, who fielded the latter's bunt threw wild to Stiff and Stricker pulled up at third. Conner floated to Atchinson. Orel singled over second scoring Stricker and Melchiorio. Honecker was out at first, Stiff unassisted. Andrews walked and Gordan singled. At this moment Ryan left the field in favor of Rea. Rea forced Bruce to roll out, Stiff unassisted.

The Regs got their lone tally in the seventh. With one down, Greber singled past the hot corner. Bruce issued Stiff a pass to first. "Rabbit" Cain laced out a single to left and Greber started for home. Honecker fielded the ball but threw high at the plate and Greber was safe. While Gordan was throwing out Witt at first, Stiff was racing home. Bero relayed the ball to Gordan and Stiff was called out at the plate. Cain was on Stiff's heels at the plate. The Regs got two hits in that frame. Up until that round, Bruce held the local team to two well scattered hits.

In the fourth Coshocton had a good opportunity to score when Cain led off with a triple to deep center. After Cain had tripled, Daugherty's liner to right was caught and prevented Homer from scoring. Atchinson was thrown out on an easy roller and Greber lifted to Honecker in left for the final out.

Orve Rea pitched a good four and one-third innings. Bruce was the only batter to connect safely off of him.

About 600 fans witnessed the game. Had it not been for Jupe Plurius a good crowd would have been present, because early indications showed that many would have been to the game. Many went home from the park after it had rained the first time.

The game was played on a muddy field. The rain delayed the game for an hour. Oil was burned and sawdust was sprinkled on the wet places of the infield before the game got underway.

"Rabbit" Cain played a wonderful game around the hot corner yesterday afternoon. He accepted four chances without the sign of a wobble.

Cain is a big help to the Regulars and will no doubt play an important part in the coming New Philadelphia-Coshocton series Cain played with the Canton Terminals of the Mid-West League during the past season.

The local management has confidence in Pitcher Ryan despite the fact he was hit lively in spots yesterday. Catcher Hildebrand said that the youngster had good curves and that he should go better the next start. Ryan was the losing pitcher.

Coshocton and New Philadelphia will start their series at Lake Park Sunday afternoon. This will be a crucial game Sunday afternoon. The team which wins the first game has a big edge over the losing team in a short series.

The series will be comprised of the best two out of three games.

Cochran Well in Lead of Golfers

(By DAVIS J. WALSH)
International News Service Sports Editor.

MERION CRICKET CLUB, Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 22.—In a drizzle of rain that reduced the early gallery to players and caddies, a depleted field of some 150 started early today on the belt lap of its 36 hole qualifying round of the national amateur golf championship. Only 32 can hope to survive, and of these D. Clark Corkran Bobby Jones, Tony Torrance, and the Englishman, Roland R. Mackenzie, the school boy shark; Fred Wright and several others were the sole entries who remained in the running for the medal.

Corkran, who broke the course record with a magical 67 in the first half of the qualifying test on Saturday, was five strokes beyond the pack at the start of this morning's round. Another low medal score today would place Corkran in position to establish a new mark for national championship qualifying rounds.

Small of stature but with a great heart, Corkran needed all of his fighting courage to stave off the expected rush of Bobby Jones, who shot a 72 on Saturday to gain the runner up position. Torrance, Wright, Mackenzie and Dexter Cummings, intercollegiate champion, were grouped in third place with a collective 73 and faced a fighting chance to gain medal honors.

It was the general belief that only miracle golf could catch Corkran and such entries as Francis Quimet, Max Marston, the champion Chick Evans Jess Sweetster, Willie Hunter, Bob Gardner, and Jess Guilford, clustered around the middle 70's were not regarded seriously for the medal.

As a matter of fact they had to uncover sound golf from first to last in order to qualify, and this applied particularly to all the British entries. Barring Torrance, Cyril Tolley, with a 79 on Saturday, was on the ragged edge today. So were W. I. Murray, A. L. Murray, Hon. Michael Scott, O. C. Bristowe and the remainder of the invading troupe.

It was estimated that nothing worse than 158 could hope to make the riffle in the qualifying round. That total looked as big as a buckster's mouth to some of the British.

Wittenberg at Denison Oct. 11

SPRINGFIELD, O., Sept. 22.—Wittenberg college football players go to Granville to meet the Big Red team of Denison Saturday, Oct. 11.

Attention of the Ohio conference will be called to this battle of prominent teams. The result will be record shattering. Scarcely any team may stand high in the conference race with a defeat against it.

Godfrey will take plenty of reserve players with him, knowing well that the contest will call upon extra strength.

Baseball today enters in its last week of the season.

Down the final stretch the clubs are battling neck and neck, nose and nose.

In the National league it is New York, Brooklyn and Pittsburgh.

In the American league it is Washington and New York.

Seven days to go—seven hectic, battle swept days; seven days of fight and fight, and fight.

No chance now to ease up or catch breath, no chance to stumble and recover, no chance to fumble and retrieve.

Just fight—breath-taking, nerve-racking fight.

It isn't a question of baseball ability and baseball strategy, and baseball polish now. It's a question of nerve, pure unadulterated nerve. It's a question of stamina and fight and inspiration. It's a question of heart.

The strain of the season and the gruelling pace of the closing month have taken their toll. They show in the nervous, drawn faces of the players, they are apparent in the eagerness of the batters stepping to the plate; in the nervousness of the infielders crouching on their toes awaiting the ball. And they are apparent in the grouchiness of the athletes, the readiness to quarrel and find fault and berate umpires, opponents and spectators alike.

But the big test ahead lies in these seven days that yet remain. And the winner?

The winner will be the club that has the nerve and stamina and heart to keep going, going and going.

In the National League the Giants with six games to play have a half game lead over the inspired Brooklyns. And the Dodgers fighting so hard have only five games.

But ahead of the Giants looms the gaunt, ferocious spectre of Pittsburgh. Beginning today the Giants meet Pittsburgh in three games and in those three games will be written the story of the National League pennant.

Over in the American League the dying Senators seem safely in. The Yankees, plowing along behind them, are floundering and staggering in the stretch.

Baseball history will be written during these next seven days. It will be written at the Polo Grounds.

First Scrimmage for Wooster Men

WOOSTER, O., Sept. 22. — The Wooster College football squad is booked for the first scrimmage of the 1924 season Monday evening Coach Boles expects to put the whole squad thru some fast paces this week in order to get ready for the Ashland game next Saturday. The men who will be depended upon to fill the gaps in last year's line will get plenty of work this week.

The first rough work of the year came last Saturday when the men were put thru some blocking and charging practice sessions.

Boles is not taking the Ashland game lightly. Experience with the Brethren 11 for the last two years has taught the Wooster mentor that his neighbors always have a team that fights to the last notch. For two years Wooster was only able to win by a single touchdown and Boles expects his men to find the skidding just as hard this year.

PENNY ANTE "THE FELLOW WHO CAN'T SHUFFLE" By JEAN KNOTT

Sport Chatter

Latest fad in boxing world is advancing asinine alibi when you wish to sidestep regularly scheduled bout. First Benny Leonard reported to Boxing Commission with certified list of high-grade injuries unheard of by Noah Webster and puzzled physicians, requesting that his fracas with Mickey Walker be postponed.

That was enough to make any gumshoe detective polish up his badge and look stern. But straw that cracked camel's spine was Pancho Villa's assertion that he needed to put his shoulder into drydock before offering it as target for Frankie Genaro's smashes.

Way is now open for any temperamental boxer to dodge tough battle by excuses like this:

Dear Boxing Commissioners:

Please cancel my bout with Battling Borneo at the Canadian Club next Sunday, as I sprained my wrist winding the phonograph at my daughter's dinner dance last night.

KNOCKOUT DROPP.

Hon. Tex. Rickard:

I will be unable to take on One-Round Reilly at the Spinsters' Seminary Club tomorrow on account of a dislocated eyelash, which may make a blind man out of me.

SAILOR CECIL.

Fireman Flaherty:

Awfully sorry, old man, but we'll have to call off our date at the Chatagua Club because I sprained my fingernail digging nickels out of a slot machine.

YOUNG "KID" GLOVES.

Tagging The Bases

The Giants sunk to a lead of half a game when Tony Kauffman left-handed them to a 3-to-0 defeat by the Cubs.

Pittsburgh dropped its last game in Brooklyn by a 2 to 1 count and the Dodgers stepped over them to another hand-to-hand fight for the National league lead.

The Yankees dropped another to the Tigers 4 to 3 and the Senators added a full game to their lead in the American league.

Zachary was too much for the Browns, gaining a six to four victory for the Senators.

The Athletics won their first encounter with the White Sox 4 to 1 but the Chicagoans laid down a barrage of 11 hits and made them good for a 12 to 5 win in the second game.

Howard Ehmke beat the Indians, 2 to 0, in the first game of a double header and the Red Sox celebrated with an 11 to 5 victory in the second game.

CAMBRIDGE WINS LAST HALF FLAG

The Cambridge Afefas won the second half title of the Eastern Ohio League Sunday afternoon when they nosed out the Mt. Vernon baseball team on the former's diamond by a score of 3 to 2.

The Afefas used a pinch hitter to aid them in winning the contest. Johnny Walsh featured the game in base stealing and playing for the home club.

Spencer twirled for the home club and Mike Miller for the Mounts. Each team got nine hits.

The big series between Zanesville and the Cambridge club will be started Sunday. Just where the first game will be played has not yet been decided.

GREYS WIN TWO GAMES FROM OILS

The Zanesville Greys closed the season yesterday by winning a double header from the Newark Pure Oils. Zanesville won the first game 9 to 7 and the second by a score of 7 to 1. The games were played at Zanesville.

Jones pitched the first game for the Greys and Griffith the second one for the home team.

Mysterious

eral Harry M. Daugherty in which he "repudiated" the sensational testimony he gave against Daugherty and the department of justice before the Wheeler-Brookhart senatorial committee last winter.

Means admitted today he had signed the statement made public by Mr. Daugherty, but said he "didn't swear to it" whereas his testimony before the Wheeler committee was under oath.

"When I swear to a thing, I stick to it. I stick to my sworn testimony. The statement used by Mr. Daugherty is not an affidavit."

Means was vague concerning the whole affair of the "repudiation" and inclined to be his usual mysterious self. He hinted at further "sensational disclosures" if the Wheeler committee would reconvene for a few days and give him an opportunity to testify. Until then or until he had had a chance to confer with Senator Wheeler he indicated he would have to remain silent.

Means' testimony before the committee was sensational in the extreme. It was he who furnished some of the most amazing chapters of the months of investigation. One of the most sensational episodes in his testimony was that relating to the late Jesse Smith, a friend of the former attorney general's. Means said he secured $100,000 in thousand dollar bills from an unnamed Japanese representative of the Standard Aircraft Co., and turned this small fortune over to Smith.

Means said in his "business" it was necessary to sign many things and that "the full story is yet to come."

"Bobs" Doomed? Beauty Crown to Unshorn Girls

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—Is bobbed hair doomed?

Beauty specialists, theatrical managers and style authorities in New York agree that the post-war epidemic of shorn tresses has reached its peak, and women who seek to dress "differently" are turning to "transformations," the Parisienne bandeau and other means of disguising their snipped locks, according to late reports from the east.

Newspaper women in attendance at the Long Island social activities in honor of the Prince of Wales, were impressed with the spreading habit of letting the hair grow long again. Society women they found, are pensioning the barber's shears, because "every shop girl now has a boyish shingle."

You may be as beautiful as Helen of Troy or as shapely as Venus—but you'll probably never win a national bathing beauty contest if you have bobbed hair!

To judge from the recent happenings at Atlantic City, where the fairest of the fair from more than ninety American cities assembled to comp te for the honor of being named "Miss America," the girls with the shingle or boyish bob don't have a chance.

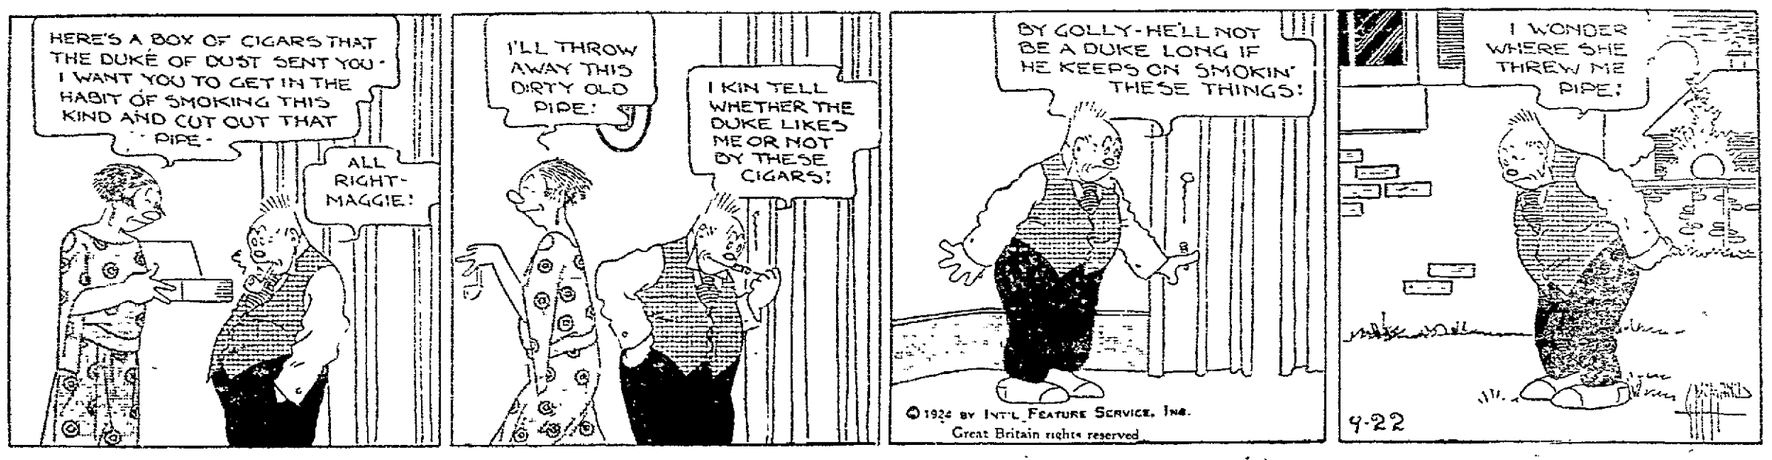

There were a number of girls at the contest whose locks were attractively clipped—but they disappeared in the first elimination and were never heard of again.

Miss Ruth Malcolmson, whose dark, lustrous curls fell over her shapely shoulders was chosen Beach Queen of America. She comes from Philadelphia. Her curls have never been scissored, she said.

And there was Miss Katherine M. Campbell of Columbia, S. C., who won the Atlantic City Beauty crown for the last two years. She was "runner-up" this year.

FORMER CONSUL TO GREAT BRITAIN ENDORSES "DRECO"

Fred Ludlow, also Noted as Author, Journalist and Lecturer, was Martyr to Liver Trouble for Years. Tried Everything but Got No Relief Until He Took "DRECO."

Mr. Fred Ludlow, for many years American Consul to Great Britain, who is also well-known all over that country and the United States as an author, journalist and lecturer, suffered greatly from indigestion and liver troubles just before he left Great Britain for America. In vain he tried all the remedies famous over there and consulted many specialists without results.

Mr. Fred Ludlow.

Soon after arriving in this country to begin his lecture tour he was suffering very severely with his stomach. One of his friends who knew of Dreco recommended this plant and herb remedy to him. The result is explained in the following letter which was sent out from his New York headquarters at 371 West 23rd Street. He writes:

"I deem it my duty to write and acquaint you of my happy experience with your splendid "DRECO" Herbal Remedy.

"For many years I was a martyr to indigestion and liver troubles, with bad nervous attacks, and in spite of all the doctors and so-called remedies I tried I was unable to obtain any relief. Upon my arrival in America, however, a few weeks ago, I was suffering very acutely when I was induced to try your Dreco Herbal Remedy which I am pleased to say brought me speedy and permanent relief.

"Naturally I was overjoyed to know that at last I had discovered the remedy which I had so long been seeking."

For Clean Women

Knowledge of personal hygiene is important and if you care to learn some very surprising truths about this absorbing subject get a six ounce bottle of Kojene for 60 cents at Wimmer-Arnold Company or any progressive druggist.

It's the world's most powerful non-poisonous antiseptic and is thoroughly effective as a germ destroying mouth wash and for other feminine purposes.

And, all women who desire immaculate cleanliness should bear this in mind:

If Kojene isn't the finest and best antiseptic you ever used —your money back freely and cheerfully.

Four times as powerful a germ destroyer as poisonous Carbolic Acid and has nothing but the most healthful effect upon the most delicate membrane.

TODAY'S BRIGHT SPOT

Another course designed to drive away old age and encourage everlasting youth has been condemned by the courts.

At Cincinnati the latest and most unusual attempt in the direction of the fountain of youth was brought to light when Mrs. Kathryn Prout filed suit for divorce, charging her husband, John D. Prout, 45-year-old realtor, with embarking on a wine consuming spree in an effort to "get young again."

Mrs. Prout also credited her husband with a record for drinking wine. On one occasion, she said, he drank twenty-one gallons of the liquid before he was gripped by hallucinations and confined to bed for two weeks.

LIMA—Leaders in the industrial and business life of this city believe that prosperity akin to that of war times soon may be realized here. Optimism in business circles was given a decided boost by the recent railway activities and orders given the Lima locomotive works. The Garford Motor Company will sell 100 motor trucks more this month than in August, company officials say. Local bankers announce a strong demand for money, exceeding in constructive, productive work, anything that has come to the attention of bank officials in many months.

NELSONVILLE—Mines of several large coal companies in both the Hocking and Sunday Creek valleys have resumed work after a strike of several days, a cut in the pay of several classes of workers being adjusted. Some of the mines in which the men struck, had just resumed operations after a month of suspension.

LOGAN—Mrs. Matthew Wilson, Hocking county's health nurse, was more seriously injured than at first believed in a recent motor car accident in which her machine was wrecked. She has failed to show any marked improvement, and it is now believed her hip was fractured.

POMEROY — Ohio river ferry boats are reaping a harvest as the result of motor car travel in this section of the state. One Sunday recently a ferry at Point Pleasant carried 400 car, while a ferry started at Kenova last year already has carried about 100,000 machines across the river.

MIDDLEPORT—Frank Green, 50, a farmer living near Snowville, is dead at his home as a result of a sunstroke sustained last June while in the hayfield. He was ill until his death. A wife and eight children, four sons and four daughters, survive.

BELLAIRE—Walter Price, 28, is dead today, the result of injuries sustained when he was run over by a string of cars in the Johnson mine at Dilles.

URBANA—With thirty-one students enrolled and the prospects of several more enrollments during the week, the Urbana Junior College has started on its seventy-fourth year with the largest enrollment in several years. For the first time in many years the college promises to be a real contender in athletics. Dr. R. S Coppess who has been employed as football coach, has expressed satisfaction at the material given him to build a team.

MARION — Aided materially by an additional appropriation of $1,500 by county commissioners, thereby swelling the country's appropriation for the maintenance and support of an agricultural agent in Marion county to $2,000 annually, the Marion county farm bureau soon is to be reopened.

ELYRIA—Julius Davis, of Cleveland, former merchant at Oberlin, asks $25,000 damages from Louis Bergner, Oberlin insurance agent, for "falsely, maliciously and without reasonable cause" causing his arrest on a charge of jeopardizing an insurer. Davis' store was destroyed by fire, the contention being that he placed a lighted candle near inflamable materials, which it would ignite here in the night. Davis was acquitted following his indictment.

DEFIANCE—Excitement reigned here for a few moments at the Imperial street restaurant when Jean Watson, Ottawa Pike, delivered the meat supply. Smoke poured from Watson's pocket, where he had carried his pipe for safekeeping. Mrs Shirley threw water on him to save his clothing from further damage.

AMHERST—Mrs. E. Nagel, of Erie, Pa., sustained severe bodily bruises and Joe Csineka, of Lorain, received a broken collar bone when the automobile in which they were riding overturned. Three other occupants were hurled clear of the wreckage, escaping injury.

BARNESVILLE — The Home Building & Loan Association has purchased the banking house of the National Bank of Barnesville, which failed last year for approximately $700,000. The price paid was given out as $15,000.

CHANGE PARTS TO BALANCE REFLEX

Condensers Should be Shifted Around Until Your Set Becomes Stable

By Carlton E. Butler, A.M.I.R.E.

If you have constructed the reflex set described in the previous article be sure that you finish the job by balancing out the set until it is working properly. The finishing touches put on a receiver decide whether it will be a good one, or one that you will always be dissatisfied with.

If the reflex type of receiver is improperly constructed the tube may act as a detector and rectifier of the currents in place of acting as a radio and audio frequency amplifier. If the set howls when the contact is lifted from the crystal detector then the set is functioning correctly. If the volume increases or seems to be the same when the contact is removed it indicates that the circuit is not functioning correctly.

Try shifting transformers around in the circuit and try substituting transformers if you have extra ones available. Remove the fixed condensers one by one and substitute others of the same capacity. Condensers of supposedly the same capacity often vary considerably.

Try using fixed condensers of different values. One way of determining approximately the correct value of a condenser to use is to use a variable condenser in place of the fixed condenser and note the amount of capacity that is necessary to make the circuit function correctly. If you use a .0005 Mfd. variable condenser and the circuit functions correctly with the plates about half in then a fixed condenser of about .00025 Mfd. capacity should be used in this place.

Reverse the leads to the primary of your transformers to see if it improves results. Try reversing the connections on the crystal detector as it may be that you have it wrong.

Flyers Will Get $1,000 Each on Arrival in L. A.

MUNICIPAL FIELD, TUSCON, Ariz., Sept. 22—Prepared to hop off the home stretch of their globe encircling flight, the United States army round the world flyers were up at dawn here today tuning up their ships for the 350 mile jump to San Diego.

They expect to take off between 9 and 10 o'clock.

"The planes are in good shape and we expect to make a fast trip to San Diego," Lieut. Lowell Smith flight commander, said this morning. "We probably will get to Los Angeles Thursday."

Each of the flyers today had with him a genuine Navajo rug, gifts of Tuscon citizens, who gave them a tumultuous welcome.

The trip from El Paso was made without incident, an average speed of 90 miles an hour having been maintained.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 22—Purses of $1,000 each will be presented the round the world flyers when they reach Los Angeles, the committee in charge of arrangements for their welcome announced today.

An escort of 20 planes will bring the birdmen to Cloverfield, where a huge floral piece, in the form of a setting sun, was being completed today.

Good Night Stories

BETTY CHANGES HER MIND ABOUT SOME THINGS.

"HUM," grunted Betty as she closed her study book and tossed it aside. "You can say what you please, I wouldn't like to live on the desert. Would you Donald?"

"What! Live where you couldn't see anything but sand, sand, all the time? I should say I wouldn't like to live there. My, but it must be a dreadful place."

"Oh, I don't know," laughed a merry voice, and Gocomeback, the wee travel elfin, hopped up beside the two youngsters. "I think the Sahara Desert is a lovely place," and before either Donald or Betty could say another word Gocomeback had them by the hands and they were sailing through the air.

"So many little children have the same idea you two have," he laughed, "and I just want to give you a chance to see it for yourselves."

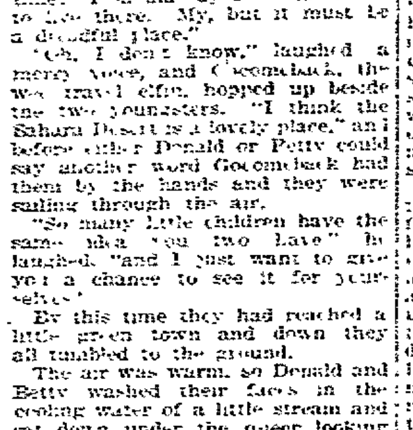

By this time they had reached a little green town and down they all tumbled to the ground.

The air was warm, so Donald and Betty washed their faces in the cooling water of a little stream and sat down under the queer looking trees to rest.

"Why, Gocomeback," cried Betty as the elfin tossed a date into her lap, "is this a date tree?"

"Sure it is, and we're in the Sahara Desert this very second," laughed the elfin.

"But there's beans and onions growing over there," said Donald, "and there's turnips and peas growing there, too. Why Gocomeback, you don't mean we're in the Sahara Desert now, do you? I never knew you could find anything but sand and a few patches of grass."

"We're in the Sahara."

"That's why I brought you on this trip," laughed Gocomeback. "I wanted to show you that the desert has its good points as well as its bad ones. It is a sea of sand, but every once in a while you'll run across these patches of good soil—which are called oases, that will readily yield if properly cultivated. Why, they grow oranges, lemons, pears, peaches and figs. What more could you ask of the desert?"

"Isn't that funny," laughed Betty. "I always pictured a desert as one great sea of sand with camels wandering over it."

"It would be a sea of sand if it weren't for these grassy, watered spots scattered over it," said Gocomeback. "And you can buy the fresh vegetables and dates for a few pennies. Now, come on, we must hurry back before your mama misses you," and before Donald and Betty knew what was happening they stood back in their own front yard in America.

Betty picked up her study book and they ran into the house to tell mama about the lovely trip they had taken with Gocomeback.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adele Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

What Madge and Katherine Found Out About Mollie.

DESPITE the stress of the moment, I was irresistibly reminded of the Indian st[illegible] which I used to read as K[illegible] and I [illegible] hurried down the dark road after Mollie's fleeing figure.

Treading in the dust our footsteps were as noiseless as hers, and so she had [illegible] looking around—she was evidently in too desperate a hurry for any delay—I followed Katherine's suggestion to remain close in the shadow of the bushes. Thus we would be screened from the sight of whomever she was hurrying to meet, for that she was hastening to some rendezvous was plain.

We reached the crossroads a quarter mile from the farm, however, before she halted. We were so close behind her that we heard the frightened, fitful gasp she gave as she abruptly stopped and waited while a stocky but powerful masculine figure stepped from the shadow of a tree and came toward her. Farther down the road I caught the dim outlines of a big car, and knew to what means the stranger had come to meet the girl who was so plainly terrified at his advance.

With infinite caution Katherine and I withdrew into the bushes. A few feet from us there was an opening in the fence enclosing a field next to the farm. Getting through that we were enabled to establish ourselves exactly opposite Mollie, but thoroughly screened from her by a thicket of brambles.

Across the road swung the figure of the man, and back against the bushes shrank the lady or terrified Mollie Fawcett. My hands clenched into fists in the sudden impulse to protect her. I know both Katherine, as well as I, would have dashed through the bushes to her aid, had he touched her, but he stopped when he was within two feet of her, and said roughly:

"Suppose I Refuse?"

"Well, you little devil! So you thought you'd better come to meet Papa after all? You realize, don't you, that you can't dodge me, no matter where you go? But I'll admit you gave me a whale of a chase, just the same. If I hadn't had a tip, but never mind that—the question is now when are you going to come to terms?"

"What terms?" Mollie faltered woefully.

"What terms?" he repeated with an ironical little laugh. "As if you didn't know, Miss Innocence, but I'll tell you again. My terms. You're to stop this shilly-shallying and putting me off, and tell me just what day you're going to keep the promises you've made me—two of 'em, remember! And it's got to be a day this week, too. I'm not going to wait a minute longer."

"This—week!" The words were hardly more than a terrified breath.

"Yes, this week," he mocked. "Cheer up! When it's once done you'd feel better. Just think of the [illegible] you'll get."

"But suppose I refuse?" Her voice had the strength of desperation.

"S[illegible] I tell you why you won't. There was a sudden [illegible] one which was more deadly than his roughness. "No, I guess I'll whisper it. No, I won't touch you. I'll even put my hands behind me."

An Unexpected Presence.

He stepped close to her, bent his head to hers and whispered something that made her recoil from him with a tortured moan.

"There!" he said triumphantly. "Do I hold four aces?"

She beat her hands futilely against the air.

"Oh! please go, go!" she cried. "I'll do everything you wish. But I can't get away from here for two days. Day after tomorrow at five o'clock in the afternoon come to Mrs. Marks'. I'll have everything there. But go away now—now!"

He stepped back, raised his hat and made her a mocking bow.

"With the greatest of pleasure," he smiled and kept his word by turning and striding back toward his waiting car. Mollie Fawcett, swaying, stumbling, retraced her steps along the road she had come, and through the barrier of bushes came the sound of choking pitiful little moans.

Waiting only till we were sure she could not hear us, Katherine and I started after her, when a low voice from the bushes beside us said cautiously:

"Don't scream, girls. It's Lil," and a second later Mrs. Underwood, whom I had supposed to be in New York, stepped out of the bushes.

She wasted no time in greetings, but gave us our instructions tersely.

"I haven't a second to spare. Don't let that girl give you the slip again if you have to tie her up. I'll be back for her, I'm sure, before the time she has set, but if I'm not, don't let her go. I've got the last link of the chain at last."

She turned and hurried away on a cross-field path which I knew would bring her out on the side road. Katherine and I did not speak for several minutes after we had started on our homeward trudge, but just before we turned in at the farmyard gate—through which we had seen Mollie Fawcett go but a minute before—Katherine said hesitantly:

"Didn't it sound to you as though Lil suspects Mollie of being in collusion with those fur thieves?"

"Yes, it does," I answered, and then something outside my own volition made me add, "But I don't believe she is."

THE HOME KITCHEN

Solving The Problem of Savory Sauces For Special Dishes

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON

The Authority on Home Cooking

SAUCE making is one of the fine points in culinary art. Every sauce must be savory after its kind. The flavor of a sauce must be such as to continue the taste of the food upon which it is to be used, but in no sense strong enough to detract from the flavor. The sauce maker must know what the flavor will be hot or cold, if it will change by standing, or lose its texture by reheating. Only the freshest and best savory seasonings are necessary.

The seasoning shelf figures largely in sauce making, and I should contain at all times the things that are likely to be used. The best [illegible] salt, red, white [illegible] and [illegible] pepper [illegible] mustard and two or three [illegible] mixed mustards [illegible]

SOMEWHERE, sometime she read the old Indian legend of the harvest time—that when the harvest moon shone and the maidens and the braves danced 'neath its wondrous silver beams, that the maidens suddenly dashed into the cornfield and the girl who first found a blood-red ear of corn would marry her loved one before the year was over. So, this little seeker after romance, love and happiness, has slipped into the field when the great harvest moon bathes the world in a flood of silver glory, and—visioning the little Indian maiden of long ago and her brave lover—finds that she, too, will have that great happiness of life, for she has found the blood-red ear. Yes, history always repeats itself—particularly in love!

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT A Well-Balanced Loser

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

MOTHER showed me the letter the other day—such an amazing letter.

But then, it was from an amazing woman, so after all——

"Don't fret about me and my third marriage," said the letter. "You say I'm a poor picker and you dread my third choice.

"Now, don't you worry about that. I don't think I'm such a poor picker, as results go.

"Poor Dick wasn't anything in particular, to be sure—but neither was I when I married him.

"I was just a silly, emotional, romantic, inexperienced girl, and he was just exactly the high flown, romantic, conceited, impractical, inexperienced boy that belonged to me.

"I won't deny that it was a good deal of a relief to me when I finally realized that poor Dick was really through with his worries and his indiscretions and his follies—as far as this world was concerned.

"I grew—and he didn't, and things might have been tragic for us if we'd had to keep on.

"But I chose right—when I was choosing.

"Now, as to Tom, my second choice. Tom certainly turned out pretty badly. He couldn't be faithful even to Cleopatra, not if he tried—and he never even tried.

"I'm Not Sorry I Picked Tom."

"Easy going, shiftless, irresponsible—dear me, I'm sorry for Tom's second! I hear she's young and pretty. Poor thing, I wonder how long it will take her to wake up.

"Now, as for Tom and me—that's a different story.

"When I married Tom I was nearly thirty years old. I knew the world—or thought I did—I'd met all kinds of men, and I thought that Tom was the one man on earth for me—and he was—when I married him.

"He was for that matter, for ten long years.

"I didn't care how shiftless he was, or how easy going. I didn't care if he was lacking in ambition. I was crazy about Tom.

"And he was crazy about me and he was the greatest sweetheart in the world.

"Who but Tom knew exactly when to give you a flower and when to read you a bit of verse, and when to have a nice little lover's quarrel—oh, Tom was the perfect husband for me when I was twenty-[illegible] and up to the time I was about thirty-[illegible]. I think I was [illegible] for him [illegible] anyhow, and I believe he [illegible].

"Oh, yes, it was bitter when I had to give him up—but I've had ten years, or nearly ten years, of almost perfect happiness. How many women who are good 'pickers' can say as much?

"I'm not sorry I picked Tom; I'm glad of it. I wouldn't have missed him for the world, and I wouldn't live under the same roof with him again for twenty-four hours now for thousands of dollars and all the pearls in pearldom.

"Marry again? Why, yes, of course, if I can find the right man. I'm thirty-eight now, and the man I marry must have two yachts and four motor cars. He must have a house on the south side of Washington Square and a camp in the Adirondacks, and a Winter home in Florida or California.

She Knows What She Wants.

"And he must speak at least three languages and write and read four or five. He must know pictures and books and plays and interior decoration; he must know a horse and a dog and be an all-round athlete. He must love children and love home, and yet be an accomplished mixer. He must be young enough to like fun and old enough to have sense—when I find a man like that, maybe——"

I don't think the mother of the writer of the letter need to worry—do you?

I wonder if she would have been really happier if poor Dick had lived and she had made the best of him and of her life and helped him to grow, and grown with him—or——

Well, I'm glad the settlement of marriages, either in the beginning or in the end, is not exactly my affair. Don't you feel that way?

How to Make an Oily Skin More Beautiful

By LUCREZIA BORI

The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

NO woman can be beautiful without a good complexion, and certainly every woman owes it to herself to make her complexion as attractive as it can be.

The real art of [illegible] must [illegible] from within [illegible] planned [illegible] care, for no real beauty can result from covering a mediocre complexion with powder and cosmetics. These things all have their proper place, but try to make your complexion itself attractive before you use cosmetics upon it.

As I have said before, real beauty must come from within and not from without. For instance, your system must be in the best possible condition if your skin is to show the healthful clearness that goes into the making of real beauty.

You must eat green vegetables and lettuce and such beautifying things, and you must chew your food thoroughly. You must drink plenty of water, and you must apply water outside as freely as within.

By this I mean to stress the importance of the daily bath, for it has been aptly called the cornerstone of true beauty.

Now there are special needs that come to different skins with the various seasons. For instance, some complexions are inclined to appear greasy or oily, especially in hot weather. Then again, other skins show this tendency even in cool weather. The woman who suffers from this ailment will want a special lotion to overcome it, and here is one that she will find excellent indeed:

Rosewater	$5\frac{1}{2}$ ounces
Alcohol	$\frac{1}{2}$ ounce
Boric acid	$\frac{1}{2}$ dram

This lotion is cleansing, cooling and drying. You can use it to bathe your face in twice a day, or oftener, according to your special needs.

While the skin that does suffer from this oversupply of oils can become very greasy and unattractive in appearance if neglected, the ailment can always be taken in hand and so treated that its disagreeable results are negligible.

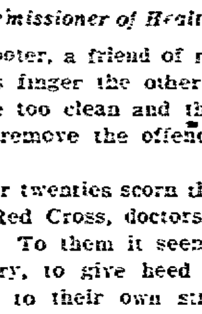

Even if you have to bathe your face several times a day, you can make it appear soft and cool and smooth. All you need to do is to watch out for your own special needs and treat your complexion accordingly.

Another help toward the fresh cool attractive complexion is to keep a bottle of some good toilet water on hand. You can get this at your druggist's, choosing any scent that pleases you. Lavender or rose geranium or the scent of any of these fresh green things is cool and attractive. After washing your face in clear cool water, dampen a bit of cotton with this toilet water and rub it gently over your face, especially at the temples.

YOUR HEALTH

Don't Neglect Injuries No Matter How "Trifling"

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND.

A BIG, husky six-footer, a friend of mine, stuck a splinter in his finger the other day. His hands were none too clean and the point of the knife he used to remove the offending object was soiled, too.

Young chaps in their twenties scorn the methods recommended by the Red Cross, doctors and other well-informed persons. To them it seems babyish, or at least unnecessary, to give heed to trifling accidents. They trust to their own strength and vigor. "It is all in the day's work," they say.

The next day my young friend had a sore finger. In another twenty-four hours the finger was terribly swollen and very shortly the fine chap was in the hospital.

On the second day, twenty-four hours too late, he was painting his finger with iodine. But what good did that do them? By this time the germs and poisons were everywhere in his system.

There are several pus-producing germs. Some are polite germs. They never force their way past the entrance, or at least past the entrance-hall. They may fuss around there, but the main structure of the body is rarely the object of their attack.

There are other germs which need but the tiniest opening. Then they sneak into the body and overrun its whole structure, poisoning tissues and blood.

There is an old saying that "what is one man's meat is another man's poison." It is like that with our susceptibility to germs. One person may be as unaffected by a certain germ as he would be by a drop of water. Another person may suffer serious poisoning and even death by the admission of this particular germ through a very small cut.

It all depends on what we call the "resistance" of the body. This power varies, but if there is even a slight weakness, there is danger if the wrong germ appears.

You see, you don't know what your resistance is and therefore it is unwise to take a chance. On this account every injury, no matter how trifling, should be treated with respect.

A three-per-cent solution of iodine should be in every household and wherever people work. If there is an accident with a break of the skin, apply the iodine at once.

Then, if it is a splinter or a deep cut, wash your hands with soap and water, getting them as clean as possible. Apply the iodine again and with a needle which has been boiled or passed through a match flame, the splinter can be removed. Then make a further application of the iodine and wrap the part in clean linen or gauze.

Don't gamble with your health and life!

Answers to Health Questions

L. M. Q. Q.—Is argyrol harmful to the throat? Should it be diluted before spraying the throat?

A.—Argyrol will not harm the throat. It should be diluted before using as a throat spray.

THOMAS H. W. Q.—What causes my six-year-old son to get sick and become nauseated when riding in a street car or train? How can this condition be remedied?

A.—These symptoms are probably due to indigestion, poor circulation or eyestrain. Find the cause and correct it, then the symptoms will disappear.

Miss M. D. H. Q.—Please tell me why the nails of my toes and fingers peel off at the end?

A.—This is due to an underlying condition which should be determined by means of a physical examination. Consult your family physician.

D. F. C. Q.—My legs bend backwards. Is there anything I can do to remedy this condition?

A.—An operation may effect a cure. However, I would advise you to consult an orthopedic surgeon for an examination and treatment.

J. L. Q.—My front teeth on the upper part of my mouth protrude slightly. What causes this and what can I do to remedy it?

A.—This is natural. See a dentist and he may be able to straighten them for you by adjusting the proper braces.

M. E. R. Q.—My eyes are under a constant strain as though I were looking toward my nose and they feel as though they were bulging or being pressed outward. I also experience severe pain in my head above my eyes and in the back of my head. My glasses are said to fit me perfectly—what would you suggest?

A.—Since your glasses are correct the trouble may come from a source other than your eyes. I would suggest that you have your blood pressure taken and this may show up the cause of the pain in your head. Also make sure that you have no sinus condition which might be responsible.

W. H. Q.—How can one disinfect a room where a patient died of tuberculosis? Is there danger in handling articles in such a room?

A.—Open all the windows and let the direct sunlight pour in. Wash all the walls and furniture with a carbolic solution and boil all bedding and hangings. If they cannot be boiled it would be best to dispose of them by burning them. Such articles as books, etc. if not of value should be destroyed.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, SEPT. 23.

Confusing planetary operations make for a day of contradictory experiences. While those in the employment of others are under fortunate rule and those in public places may obtain recognition, yet the financial prospects are in jeopardy, especially through speculation or other form of risk. Be careful in the matter of contracts and new business. The health should receive attention more than is customary, since Saturn depresses and corrects.

Those whose birthday it is may have a fortunate year in employment or in place of public recognition, but the finances are in jeopardy through speculation or other risk. Be careful of the health and sign contracts with care. A child born on this day, although having good endowments, may make its best success by remaining in the employment of others.

LAKE PARK NEWS

Lake Park dance pavilion was dark Saturday night because the orchestra, which was scheduled to play there, had disbanded and did not show up.

Manager F. D. Johns made this explanation today. The park dances have not been discontinued and will not be as long as the weather is favorable, the park owner said.

Several good orchestras have been booked for the remainder of the dancing season, he says.

County Farmers Foresee a Corn Shortage Again

Coshocton-co farmers must again face the possibility of a shortage of seed corn, for the 1925 crop.

With this fact in mind it will doubtless be well for them to use preventive measures at the time when the maximum of probable preventatives are at their disposal —at corn-cutting time.

With ten per cent less corn acreage in Ohio than last year, and with a crop estimated to be about 30 per cent of normal, good seed corn will be scarce, in the belief of farm crops specialists at the Ohio State University.

When corn-planting time came last spring, a seed shortage almost as severe as that in 1918 confronted the farmers of Ohio. This condition was due to excessive cold weather during January and February. As a result there is virtually no good corn left from last year's crop to use for seed, next spring.

"Even with a moderately late frost," says J. S. Cutler, farm crops extension specialist at the state university, "much Ohio corn will not mature, this year. Corn in general is late and of uneven maturity. Only by prompt selection and careful drying and storing will much of Ohio's 1924 crop be fit for seed. The situation demands special attention and vigorous action during the early fall. It is important that every grower take steps to secure his own seed."

"The susceptibility of the corn crop to disease rapidly increases as maturity approaches," says County Agent G. C. Musgrove. "For this reason it is advisable to select seed ears early—soon, in fact, after the denting stage has been reached. In average seasons this would be between the first and middle of September.

"Since one of the most serious corn rot fungi gains entrance chiefly at the nodes or points of the corn plant and gradually extends thru the shank into the ear, rendering it unfit for seed, this practice is a convenient and very logical method for avoiding root rot infection.

"After field selection care must be taken so that the drying of the seed corn may proceed without interruption. Racks or wire frames may be used to advantage, and the use of artificial heat is often advisable, especially during a rainy period. Storage in the furnace room is desirable, providing the corn is not stored there before the time when the furnace is fired continually. An unheated cellar is too damp for seed corn storage. Moreover, in order to secure a high percentage of germination it is best that the corn at no time be subjected to freezing temperature."

The following "fourteen points" applied to seed corn selection are submitted by the county agent:

(1) Early maturity, vigor and position of the ear on the stalk may be influenced by seed selection, because heredity operates in corn as well as in cattle.

(2) Select well-developed ears from good, healthy, upright stalks.

(3) Select ears that are borne at a convenient height from the ground, since very high ears are usually too late in maturity.

(4) Select those ears that are most nearly mature, as evidenced by the husks being dry, altho the remainder of the stalk may be fairly green.

(5) Do not waste time by stopping to examine carefully each ear before husking it. If it has the characteristics mentioned above.

(6) Select at least twice as many ears as will be needed for planting the following crop, so that the ones showing undesirable type of kernels may be discarded next spring.

(7) By keeping in mind the really important items and disregarding fancy points, one man in one day can select and store away enough seed corn to plant 10 to 30 acres.

(8) Seed corn selected thus from the stalk is likely to produce a better crop than corn selected from the crib, where only the appearance of the ears can be seen.

(9) Seed corn that is thoroly dry before cold weather will grow, even tho it was quite immature when taken from the stalk.

(10) Don't fail to select your own seed corn, even tho it is green when frost comes. If carefully dried out it will grow and be superior to unknown seed brot from a distance.

(11) Seed corn selected early in the fall from standing stalks must be stored away properly the same day it is selected.

(12) Store away in such a manner that the ears are not piled up or put in a poorly ventilated place.

(13) Weaving the ears into a double twine is a very effective way to store seed corn. There are many good seed corn hangers and racks on the market and many home-made devices that are very good.

(14) When cold weather comes it is always a good plan to put seed corn where it cannot freeze, unless it is thoroly dry.

Those Ministers Weren't So Somber

MOST Coshocton people know now that a Methodist minister as a rule is about as human and likable an individual as can be found. We became aware of this interesting and surprising fact during the recent Northeast Ohio Methodist Conference, held in our city. Any who still have doubts in the matter should read the following, an editorial from last Friday's issue of the Akron Beacon Journal:

Those bishops, preachers and laymen who have just concluded the sessions of the Northeast Ohio M. E. Conference at Coshocton did a good hour's work when they selected Akron as the city which will have the honor of entertaining their 1925 conference. A review of the work of this year's conference indicates that many of its sessions produced an exchange of opinions much more interesting than some of the things that happened at the Institute of Politics.

The majority opinion took the right stand on war, declining to recede from the well-known Christian idea of solving international problems by agreement and the principles of brotherhood, instead of delegating that matter wholly to quarrel-promoting secret diplomacy and the warriors. The conference gave thanks that the church had recovered its zeal and morale upon the question of promoting foreign missions, at the same time establishing a half million dollar pension fund for its aged retired ministers, and with no neglect of missionary objects at home.

One of the interesting features of the convention was "The Sky Pilot," a mimeographed daily newspaper which gave all the news of the convention, with much of humor and philosophy besides. One of the writers for The Sky Pilot did his best to prove that present day ministers do not take themselves too seriously, however they may exalt the cause in which they strive. The good Bishop Henderson, for example, had an infirmity of the throat, and one of the reporters dedicated even this unfortunate circumstance to the greater glory of the Lord and the welfare of the conference.

"The quiet and intense style of the bishop's delivery," he wrote, "was pleasing and effective. We are sorry the bishop was having trouble with his throat, but we do wish sometimes that such a malady might visit some other 'big fellows' so they could realize that genius or even tremendous truth need not necessarily be propounded as a series of explosions. We like Bishop Henderson's way of saying just what he means and saying it without bombast."

And then both Hollywood and Westerville may be interested in what one of the brethren had to say in regard to the dress and manners of modern preachers, and to certain of his jests at the modern sacred ox of prohibition. "It was a great hunch that brot me to this preacher's convention," this writer said. "I've learned a few things a couple of which for the benefit of my readers I will enumerate: First, preachers don't wear white vests any more, and white ties but seldom. Second, The general run of them don't look at all like the nuts and clowns that represent them in the movies and on the stage.

"I've also learned that they know a good show when they see one. Of course, being far from the midest of their flocks may have a little to do with it. Anyway I was nearly crushed in the stampede of delegates trying to get in to see Abie's Irish Rose. An hour or so later as I was coming back past the theater I saw a brother come flying out like a wild Indian; he was a klansman who had a spasm when he saw a Methodist preacher, a rabbi, and a priest all together in a friendly way on the stage.

"I went to the opening exercises of the conference. The mayor read a cracker-jack of a speech which I understood him to say his wife wrote for him—she is some writer. When speaking of this mayor, the local preacher, a classy, distinguished looking fellow named Winters, who because of his swell appearance is often mistaken for the bishop, said that this mayor had been disposing of a lot of liquor lately and even asked him to help with the job. I sent up my address and expressed the hope that there might be three at the next party. Thot I had some great news for some of you boys. I overheard two delegates talking yesterday. One of them smacked his fist and said 'We must put up the bars again!' I went up to shake hands with him but found they were only discussing the Amusement Question."

When the preachers come to Akron next year they should bring The Sky Pilot along.

The French porter can carry more baggage than any porter in the world. He has a strap contrivance which aids him in carrying as many as 14 pieces of luggage. They are husky, good natured fellows.

French hotels and trains do not compare with ours in comfort and service. The annoying custom of lining up outside your door at hotels for tips when you leave is exasperating. I counted 20 who were waiting for me. But my Scotch instincts stood me in good stead.

The best dressed man in Paris is Prince Andre of Greece and Denmark. His hair is combed back straight from his forehead and he is the kind who can wear a monocle in the swimming pool. He goes hatless most of the time and has a dazzling color scheme in cravats, shirts and walking sticks.

The most celebrated of the American newspaper correspondents in Paris is C. F. Bertelli. Strangely enough for a journalist Mr. Bertelli occupies a magnificent estate near Paris. He entertains lavishly and is a figure in the smart social circles. He has perhaps scored more beats than any of the correspondents here and is regarded as the shrewdest reporter in Europe.

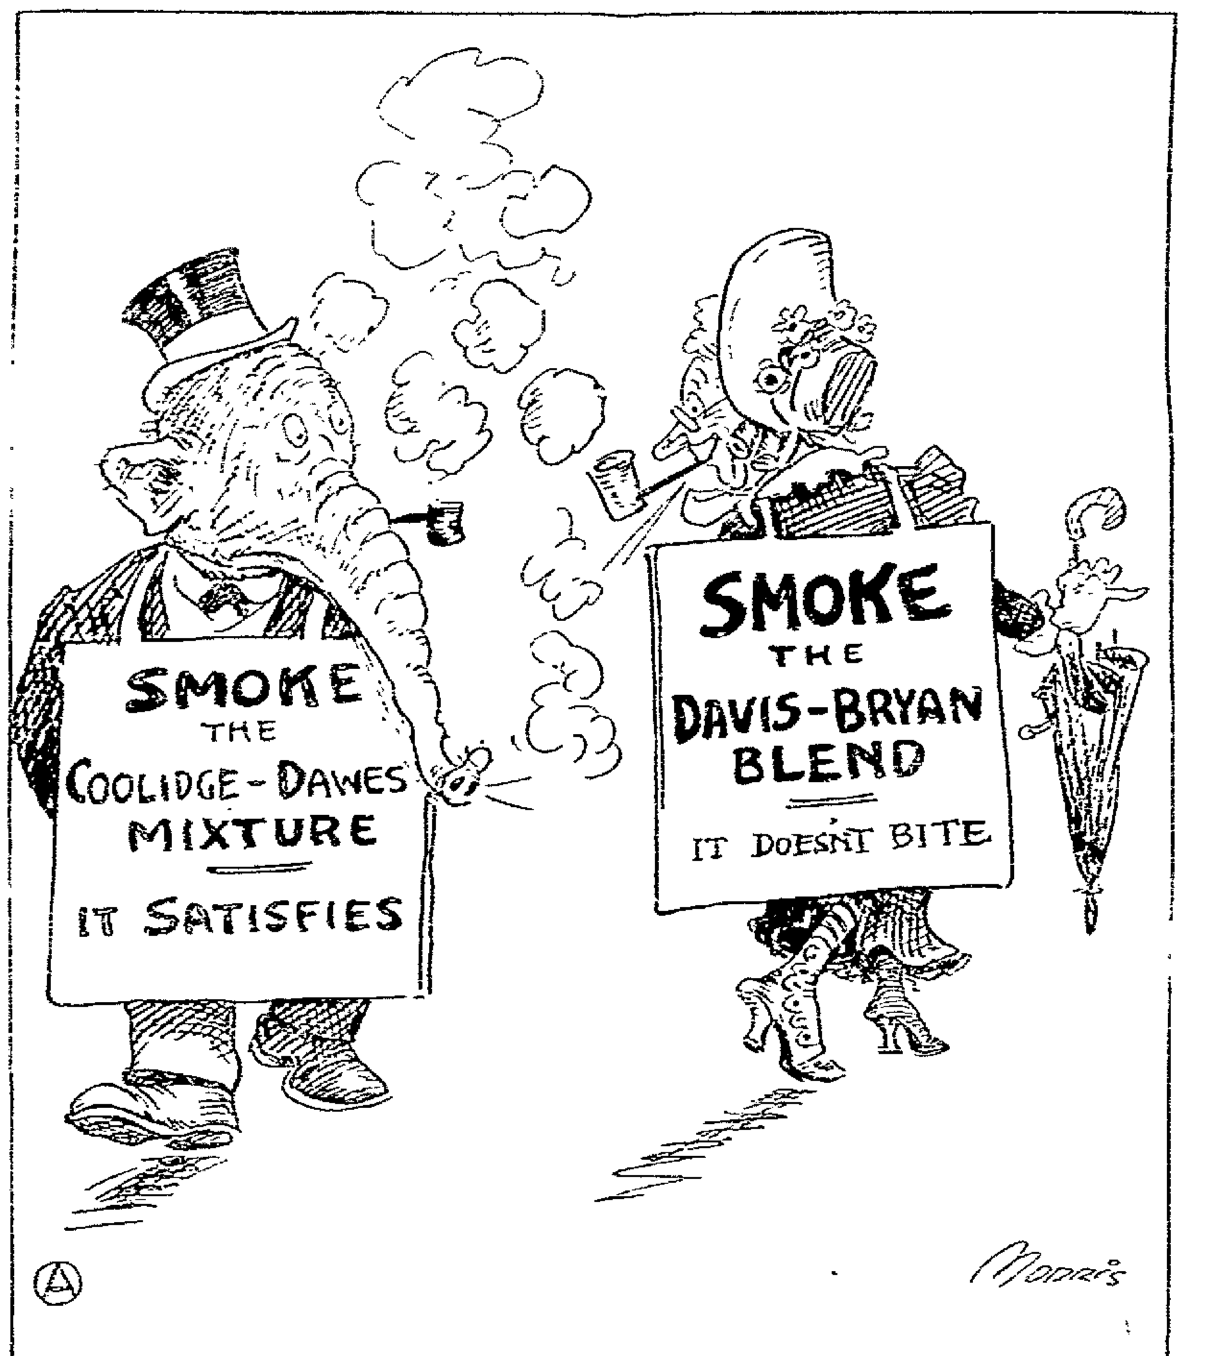

The last night in Paris brings many headaches. It is the final fling with its accompanying remorse. One fellow came to the train in evening clothes carrying a bottle of champagne in each hand. Carrying champagne any place in France is like taking a ham sandwich to a banquet.

Cherbourg is about seven hours from Paris, but seems remote as Timbuctoo. We prowled about the quaint old city picking up a few souvenirs and waiting the arrival of the Leviathan. She was an inspiring sight as the tender neared her—the mightiest ship on the sea. It was good to see the American flag and hear the band playing Dixie. Everybody gave a rousing cheer. Dusk had settled when we steamed away for the mighty deep. And everybody turned in.

A tragic figure at Cherbourg was a mother who, through some confusion in arrangements, arrived to find the nurse had left a three-year-old baby in Paris. She of course, remained ashore and her anguish was pitiable.

"YOU CAN'T GET AHEAD OF AUNTIE DEMOCRACY" By MORRIS

"The Democratic National Committee began yesterday energetic steps to capture the pipe vote which had threatened to flock to Gen. Dawes. In the face of the inverted and complicated pipe smoked by the Republican Vice Presidential candidate, the Democrats are flaunting the old corncob. Distribution of the corncobs has started. They bear the pictures of Mr. Davis and Gov. Bryan, with word "Victory" in red, stretching from the "V" in Davis to the "Y" in Bryan. The corncob was officially adopted by Gov. Bryan Sept. 3. Several hundred thousand will be distributed."—News Item.

DAILY NEWS LETTER

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers At Home and Abroad

By MICHAEL F. DACEY,

DENVER, Sept. 20.—To travel over half the world with his family, in quest of fortune and a chance at life, enduring untold hardships and privations, then to come to the United States destitute and friendless, only to be deported, was the experience of Otto Barisch, a German, from Johannesburg, South Africa.

But, in spite of the fact that Barisch and his 20-year-old wife and their two babies must go back, Uncle Sam is kind at heart, and while Barisch was relating the misfortune that has been his lot during the past few years to William F. Mansfield, immigration inspector in charge of Denver, as he sat in a Denver jail, Uncle Sam was feeding his wan and starving wife and children in the bare rooms of a small house in a secluded section of Denver, and already arranging to make the family more comfortable.

Barisch told of the years of privation and suffering which he had experienced, and how his every attempt to better himself had resulted only in ill luck; then when he saw a gleam of hope in sight, he said, he made for the United States, managed to get through in spite of immigration officials, but now — and he shrugged his shoulders despairingly.

The young German told how he had been lured in his youth to South Africa, expecting to find there wealth and fortune, particularly in the diamond mines of Kimberley, but after months of suffering there he gave up in bitter disappointment and went to Johannesburg, where he apprenticed himself to a painter.

As a contracting painter Barisch's luck proved to be better. He established himself in business, which became quite profitable as time progressed. He married and one child was born.

Attracted by the wealth which coffee plantations in South America brought to their owners, Barisch gave up his business and with his wife and child started for Brazil.

In Brazil he found things different from the brilliant pictures painted by the writers. Insects and deadly diseases flourished in the swampy coffee country, he said. His wife and child were suffering intensely from the Brazilian climate, but before he could leave that region another baby was born.

After leaving Brazil Barisch made his way to Central America. While en route there his baggage and all his possessions were stolen. When he struck Mexico a short time later he was almost without funds.

Then fate struck him another hard and cruel blow, for the remainder of the money with which he started for South America was stolen by Mexican bandits.

Barely able to gain a livlihood in Mexico City by his ability as a painter, he struggled with his family to the American border, near Juarez.

At Juarez fortune was kinder to him, for he was able to save some money in addition to supporting his family. Then, one night he slipped across the border and made his way to Denver, still endeavoring to better his condition. He left his family in Juarez until he should have time to look over things.

He stayed in Denver for a while and was able to save quite a sum of money, then he went to Mexico and brought his family back to Denver with him, but the trip cost him all his resources, and when he reached Denver he was destitute.

Barisch's second entry into the United States had been noticed by immigration officials at El Paso. Inspector Mansfield was notified and he located Barisch shortly afterward.

The family was living in one bare little room, virtually destitute. The babies were crying for nourishment, while his pale and wan wife was just about to give in to a cruel fate when Mansfield located them.

Deportation proceedings will be commenced against the little family, although, according to Mansfield, Barisch may be able to realize enough from his painting to return to South Africa without the stigma of deportation.

BY MARGERY REX

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Pity the pyromaniac.

But protect the public from him. That is the policy of Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy regarding these unfortunates whose passion for flames leads them to destroy property and imperil life.

Few women are pyromaniacs. Keeping home fires burning, and not burning up other people's homes, is usually woman's work. But once in a while a furtive feminine creature is seen crouched over in a tenement hallway, to all appearances tying together a broken shoelace, or pinning up the torn hem of her skirt, then hurrying away—and pretty soon the alarm rings out, engines dash to the burning building. And in the crowd that gathers is the same furtive creature with strange glistening eyes, the pyromaniac who set the blaze in the dark hallway, her mania appeased for a time.

Such a woman, Jennie Latimer, designer of dress patterns, herself always somberly gowned in black, set ablaze five tenement houses on a recent Sunday morning while most of the tenants were at services at St. Colombo's Roman Catholic Church in West Twenty-ninth street. Miss Latimer told Fire Marshal Brophy that she "had to do it." Like most pyromaniacs she was acting under a compulsion she could not resist.

"A pyromaniac," says Marshal Brophy, who has seen many and understands them, "is a person with an irresistible desire for fires. In order to satisfy that craving he will set fires, usually acting on an uncontrollable impulse.

"Pyromaniacs are usually found among mental defectives and feeble-minded.

"They nearly always work alone.

"The pyromaniac will be between fourteen and forty years old, either man or woman.

"The pyromaniac is the most dangerous type of firebug because he or she does not take human life into consideration. They frequently operate in congested tenement house districts, endangering the lives of the occupants of these buildings. Their peculiar weakness leads them to set fire in cellars, hallways, or on dumb waiters. Rubbish bags also afford them an excellent means to kindle a blaze.

"Pyromaniacs are particularly sure and cunning in their operations. They throw off suspicion by 'discovering' the fire after having set it, by sending in the alarm, by rescuing people, by altogether playing the hero. Frequently the impulse to return to the fire is strong, so they run in the burning building, advising people how to escape."

Scientific understanding of strange neuroses often strips the glamor of heroism from many seemingly brave acts. Out of the many fire "buffs"—as people are called who follow fires and who, in some cases, go to the extent of having alarms placed at their bedsides—few are found to be dangerous to the community. Only the pyromaniac, with his illegitimate craving for the sight of flames, is a social menace. Fire Marshal Brophy continues—

"The woman pyromaniac is more difficult to detect.

"Where the male firebug is cunning, she is much more so. Besides being more shrewd, people are not apt to suspect a woman of such a deed. Indeed, it is hard to make people understand that there could be such individuals as a feminine pyromaniac."

Mr. Ferriss, who has been discussing the recent case of pyromania with the Fire Marshal, went to a filing cabinet and showed us records of women whose crazed minds had led them to build destructive fires.

"Most people believe, too," Marshal Brophy explained, "that it is necessary to have a motive in setting a fire. I tell you that it is not true. The pyromaniac's motive is fire—that is all.

"Pyromaniacs have these characteristics—

"They work alone.

"They work for the most part at night.

"They always choose the same time of night to set fires. And they always set them in the same manner.

"They seldom use oil or kerosene to help the fire. They merely apply matches to something inflammable.

"It takes the trained specialist to detect their operations and to know what procedure to use. Sometimes the asylum is the place for them, often the prison. Some have been cured, many 'repeat,' after they leave places of correction."

The rookie had lately joined a crack cavalry outfit, and after several imitations of the Prince of Wales had lost some of his exuberance. He was standing on the sunny side of the canteen looking like the spirit of melancholy when the genial chaplain approached.

"What's the matter, my boy?" asked the chaplain. "Homesick?"

"Oh, a little, I guess," was the answer. "You see, I'm just a raw recruit."

"Cheer up, you'll be all right. But you shouldn't say 'raw recruit.' The 'raw' is superfluous."

The rookie rubbed his anatomy reflectively and then replied with sad emphasis:

Modern Tragedy

The policeman, hearing the shot, burst into the fashionable apartment. Cringing before him on the floor was the crumpled figure of a woman, weeping hysterically, a smoking pistol clutched in her trembling fingers.

"My husband! Oh, my husband!" she moaned.

"Control yourself, lady," urged the officer. "Where is the corpse?"

"Gone," sobbed the woman. "He went out thru the window. I—I missed him."

Rev. Hight

school girl of Centerville, Ill., three years ago. The girl was a member of Hight's congregation at Centerville.

"I killed her solely to end her suffering in her dying moments," said Rev. Hight.

"Our three children were in the kitchen at the time I poured the draught in her coffee. She was dying of ptomaine poisoning and I wanted only not to see her under such anguish."

Under continued pressure Rev. Hight also confessed that he had poisoned Wilford Sweetin.

"On July 27," his confession reads, "I placed some poison in a glass of water and gave it to Wilford Sweetin. I did it to relieve him to his terrible suffering from illness caused by ptomaine poisoning. He died the next morning.

"There was never anything between Elsie Sweetin and myself. She was one of my flock, a good Christian, that is all. I don't now and never did love her."

The prosecutor had questioned the minister for more than eight hours. He hurled a barrage of interrogations at the fine clergyman and flatly accused him of poisoning his wife.

"You held up her head when she was in a stupor and gave her coffee just before she passed away didn't you?" shouted the prosecutor.

"Yes," was the response, "she asked for something warm."

"You violated the doctor's orders and the physician admonished you, didn't' he?"

"It was my wife who violated the doctor's orders; she wouldn't take the medicine."

"Come now, Hight, you put some arsenic in the sugar bowl, didn't you?"

It was at this juncture that the Rev. Hight confessed killing his wife "for mercy's sake."

A coroner's jury, hurriedly called today by Coroner Jesse Reece to reopen the inquest over the body of Wilford Sweetin, is expected to return a verdict which will hold the Rev. Lawrence M. Hight for a second murder, according to police.

For the confessed murders there will be no demand for the death penalty. Thompson stated. "I will not ask the death penalty," he said. "I owe that much to the church. I will demand life imprisonment on both charges. That should suffice."

All possible clues tending to connect the minister with the death of the Centerville girl, were being traced down. An effort to force a confession from him regarding this case so far has failed.

First intimation that he may have been connected with the death came in last night's grilling when Thompson asked him about a photograph which is said to have stood on the parsonage piano. This folder contained a picture of Hight and was also thot to have held a picture of Mrs. Sweetin.

Hight denied possessing a photograph of the charming widow and to prove his point said the folder had contained the photograph of a young girl, a member of his flock, whose name had been forgotten and who had died three years ago "after drinking some water at Centerville picnic."

The girl was a friend of one of his daughters the pastor said.

On this information Sheriff Grant Holcomb immediately got into communication with authorities at Carmi, White-co and asked for a report on the girl's death.

Conference

and the people of his church we extend our most heartfelt thanks for the manifold evidence of their desire to entertain this conference in "best ever" fashion. There have been 12 committees of the local church organized under a live executive committee at work to make every detail of our entertainment complete. Therein lies the secret of the wonderful spirit and efficient work that we have found on every hand. The opening of the parsonage as a home for the bishop and for the use of the cabinet in their meetings has been a most fortunate and convenient arrangement. We also deeply appreciate the service of those whoh are provided the music for our evening sessions and on Sunday, of those who offered the use of their automobiles to those attending the conference, of our brethren on the staff of the "Sky Pilot," the conference daily, of the editors of the Coshocton Tribune in their stories of the sessions, of the Boy Scouts in their "good turns" wherever needed, and of the Burroughs Adding Machine Co. for their loan of machines in the office of the treasurer and statistician. The use of the Presbyterian church for the Laymen's conference and of the Baptist church for the Older Boy's conference were courtesies that contributed largely to the unusual success of these gatherings. The conference is greatly indebted to the secretary and his assistants and to the treasurer and statistician and those associated with them and the various committees that have had charge of much of the detail of our work. We are glad to welcome to our area and to our conference Bishop Theodore Henderson D. D., L. L. D. We are delighted with his brotherly and democratic spirit and with the very great care and patience with which he has considered the interests of our conference. The inspiration of his splendid addresses to the conference culminating in his impressive message of Sunday morning and the appeal for life service in the afternoon, resulting in a response of 142 young people will be a constant source of encouragement thru the year. The evangelistic note that he has sounded thruout the entire conference has appealed to us most forcefully and we pledge our utmost effort in carrying out the plan that he is voicing.

"Signed,
"F. C. ANDERSON,
"JOHN BLACKBURN,
"F. M. BAKER."

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The new week in the stock exchange opened under favorable conditions. First prices in the early trading today were generally higher than at the previous close. There was some irregularity in the outside markets, cotton sustaining slight losses at the start and money rates still inclining to say. Gains of a point or more were recorded in a number of the leading industrial and motor stocks, mostly in continuation of the forward movement which was in progress from Wednesday of last week.

The break in Standard Plate Glass, due to the reported error of the clerical department of the stock exchange in announcing the striking off of this stock from the list without announcing its change in name from "company" to "corporation" from made the occasion for a sharp recovery at the opening today.

The stock jumped 6½ points to 24, where it was still 1½ points below the high of last week. Instantly the market was deluged with selling orders, under the influence of which the stock broke to 22½ and sold in large volume around 23. An official statement of the company denied that there was any friction between the officials of the company and that current earnings were sufficient.

Strong spots in the early trading were American Tobacco, American Woolen, Cash Motor, American Ice, and Sinclair Trymks. Good gains in active trading were recorded by all of the stocks in this group. The biscuit company shares joined the upward movement early in the session and made still further gains. Like Columbia Gas and Consolidated Gas joining in near the end of the first hour.

The bears kept up a continual hammering on the coal industrials as well as the market leaders and prices declined moderately from the high level of the day. Coloredo Fuel lost about 3 points at 41¾. Baldwin and American Can down about one point. Oil stocks such as Texas crude prices reduced another cut and Davison Chemical sold off on official denial that Vacuum Oil Co., was buying its stock or has any intention of doing so.

DONAHEY TELLS WHERE HORSE CAME FROM; LISTS HIS GIFTS

COLUMBUS, Sept. 22.—Gov. Vic Donahey today replied to the challenge of his Republican opponent in the November election, former Gov. Harry L. Davis, and explained "who gave him the horse." Also the governor gave cognizance of the "brick plant issue," promising the public will be given all facts in due season.

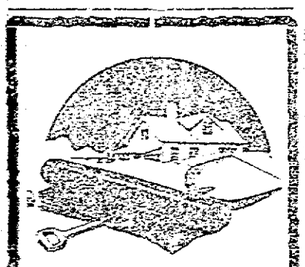

"I notice the man who is trying to lie himself back into the governor's office, after having been afraid to seek re-election two years ago, now intimates I received a gift in the form of a riding horse," Governor Donahey began.

"The truth is nobody ever gave me a horse," he declared, "but T. B. Van Camp, Columbus, loaned my family a horse, which was returned to its owner, as a freight bill will show, after my children had used it a number of months."

The governor then "for the further information of my predecessor" itemized a list of gifts received during his incumbency, to wit:

"From E. C. Jennings, Dayton, a police dog for my son Robert; Mrs. Phoebe Garver, Ashland, gave Dorothy a canary bird; Dr. W. E. Wyvarch, Lancaster, sent Vic. Jr., two flying squirrels; M. H. Risser, Columbus, gave Marion an express wagon; Madame Schumann-Heink sent Mrs. Donahey a box of Florida fruit; my cabinet officers gave me a traveling bag for my birthday; a coal company sent me a 2000-pound lump of coal, which is so excellent I placed it on exhibition in the state house yard, to encourage Ohio people to buy Ohio coal.

"In the meantime," concluded the governor, "I welcome my opponent's next lie."

The "belief" expressed by Montayne & Co. and based on profits of the parent company that $100 invested in Ford Motor of Canada will be worth more than $15,000 is decidedly rosy. Stock purchased thru any broker has the same prospects as if purchased thru the Montayne Co. the banker asserted.

Cyclone Kills

lishment of communication, the casualties would grow.

The storm apparently swept down from the northwest cutting a wide swath thru the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois.

The Dakotas today were practically isolated from wire communication, and what havoc the tornado played there was a matter of conjecture. The last word from that area told of entire circuits of wires down, whole communities in darkness, power plants out of commission and a 90-mile an hour gale sweeping down trees and unroofing houses.

Thruout Wisconsin trees and wires were down. Five of the six dead at Thorp were killed by a live wire.

At Chicago proper the full fury of the storm was not felt and properly damage here was slight. Only out on Lake Michigan did the gale threaten life. Craft were imperiled and it was feared later details would bring word of boats missing and lives lost. Several pleasure boats which had fought thru the storm all night to a harbor here brot exhausted crews who told of having sighted other craft apparently unable to weather the storm. The coast guard towed several craft to safety but were unable to reach others.

comerstown police on the shooting charge. He had not been apprehended Monday. He made his escape after the shooting.

Mrs. Hill was rushed to the City hospital late Saturday night. Dr. E. V. Berry, of Newcomerstown, Dr. J. W. Shaw and Dr. E. M. Wright dressed the wound that night.

An x-ray picture was taken of the wound Monday and disclosed the fact that the bullet was resting near the woman's pelvis. The bullet has not yet been extracted.

Allen is a well-to-do negro and had held the respect of his race in that town, it was said. He was employed at the Clow plant in Newcomerstown.

Mrs. Hill's condition was such Monday that she could not be interviewed by a Tribune reporter concerning the shooting scrape.

Davis Plans to Meet Old Rival William M'Adoo

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—Voicing claims of November victory, John W. Davis met with Democratic eastern leader today to rearange a campaign drive along the Atlantic seaboard.

The Democratic nominee will use New York city as a base during two weeks tour of eastern cities. He will open the drive with an address at Providence Thursday night, speaking in ten or twelve other cities before leaving on his second western trip October 6th.

Davis also planned to meet William Gibbs McAdoo during the day. McAdoo, who arrived from Europe this morning, has offered to take the stump for the Democratic nominee.

Davis spent the forenoon at his home in Locust Valley, L. I. He planned to motor into the New York headquarters at noon and spend the remainder of the day in conferences.

The nominee was expected to reply to a letter from Former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty which declared that Davis' attacks upon the oil scandals were unjustified. The letter, it was learned, will not change the nominee's attitude toward the scandals.

Davis was filled with optimism over his chances for November success. When told that Gov. Al. Smith might be renominated in New York, the nominee declared, "we'll re-elect him and sweep the state into the Democratic column."

"I have trveled 5,600 miles across the country," he added, "and I'm vastly cheered by the prospects. The Democratic party is in perfect unity in every state and we are giving battle to our adversaries, confident of success. The situation is extremely encouraging."

It was announced that Davis would conclude his campaign on Saturday Nov. 1, with a final speech in Carnegie Hall here. He will then go into retirement until after the election.

Announcement was made this afternoon at Davis headquarters that while the nominee was rateful for an invitation from the Democratic state committee, to attend the state convention opening Thursday in Syracuse he could not accept because he felt that it was "not his show."

Gov. Alfred E. Smith was unable to see Davis, because the governor boarded a noon train for Albany. He hopes to confer with the candidate after the state convention.

Warn Against Burning Ship Carrying Oil

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 22 — Radio warnings to all ships to give the burning oil tanker Ivor a wide berth as a terrific explosion probably would precede her plunge to the bottom, were sent out today by The Baltic American Steamship Lithuania, which was speeding toward Halifax with the crew of the doomed tanker.

Flames were leaping hundreds of feet skyward and a thick column of black smoke rose in a pall over the doomed ship as the Lithuania stood by to pick up the crew from the Ivor's lifeboats, said the messages.

The big British tanker, bound from Cardiff, Wales to Philadelphia was standing five hundred miles off Cape Sable, Nova Scotia, when the fire was discovered. The crew made strenuous efforts to subdue it, but the flames soon were beyond control. Radio calls for help were sent out and it was decided to abandon the ship.

The captain ordered the boats launched and the crew hastily tumbled in. There was no time for them to salvage any of their belongings except the clothes they wore. Steam was rising from the sea as they manned the oars and pulled away from the floating cauldron of blazing oil.

The distress signals had been picked up by the Lithuania, which rushed full speed to the scene. According to radio reports to Halifax all members of the Ivor's crew were picked up.

Hessian Fly Is on the Increase

A marked increase in Hessian fly infestation of Ohio wheatfields since last year has been found thru a recent survey of 33 counties distributed over the main wheat growing sections of the state, by the Division of Plant Industry, Ohio Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the entomological departments of Ohio State University and the Ohio agricultural experiment station.

For the state as a whole the percentage has increased from an average of 4.3 per cent for the 33 counties in 1923 to 10.3 per cent for the 33 counties in 1924.

Northeastern Ohio shows the heaviest infestation generally of any sections of the state. In the nine counties of this section surveyed, including Medina, Portage, Summit, Richland, Ashland, Stark, Wayne, Columbiana and Holmes, an average infestation of 16.1 per cent was found.

Holmes-co, just across the line from Coshocton, shows an average infestation, this year, of 18 per cent. This may be due in part, it is said, to the fact that the Amish farmers in Holmes-co, who do not take an active part in farm organization work, fail, generally, to observe safe-sowing dates when sowing their wheat.

Tho no survey of Coshocton-co has been made this year, last year's survey showed an infestation of 4.5 per cent for this county, and an average of 5.1 per cent for the east central section, including Belmont, Carroll, Coshocton, Harrison, Holmes, Jefferson and Tuscarawas.

Safe-sowing dates in Coshocton-co, this year, are given by the Division of Plant Industry, Ohio Department of Agriculture, as September 27 to October 6.

NEIL O'BRIEN, America's foremost Blackface Comedian with his Minstrel Company at the Sixth Street Theatre, Friday, September 26th.

New 6th St. Theatre

The Family Entertainment—Neil O'Brien Minstrels, new in every respect will be the attraction at the Sixth Street Theatre Friday September 26th.

This attraction has now grown to be the leading organization of its kind in America and that the reputation of the company may be still farther enhanced Mr. O'Brien promises a number of novelties for the present season.

An unique comedy prologue has been conceived for the opening of the entertainment which will be followed immediately with the traditional first-part of beautiful scenic effects, funny comedians and a vocal contingent of trained voices.

Among the novelties conceived for the second part of program will be found a new idea of a dancing act wherein the national dances of Spain will be done in the late Jazz craze, but which at the same time permits of pretty scenic effects and elaborate gowns specially designed for this number. It is in this act that Tex Hendrix and "Sugarfoot" Gaffney will do their new Valentino Sheik dance, which cannot be described, but to those who have seen Gaffney work can imagine the possibilities for this limber comedian in a dance of this style.

A new act by Mr. O'Brien called "Hot Dog." The McCoys in duet yodling, a new line of chatter by Billy Beard in his monologue and an afterpiece or finale in three scenes will go to make up the olio.

The following list of artists will appear—Neil O'Brien, Billy Beard, "Sugarfoot" Gaffney, Tex Hendrix, The McCoys, Maxine and Scotti,) James Berardi, Lea Laird, Gene Pearson, John Hinton, T. M. Bullock, Walter Anderson, Chas. R. Wright, Herman Williams, Sherman Carr, Ed. Leahy, Geo. Bracken, Joe Cronin, Billy Henderson, Walter Arnold, Joe Nellis, Tom McSherry, Harry Shaner, C. H. Dooley, and Jack Ellis.

Sheep Judging Contest to Be Staged at Fair

The Coshocton Livestock Co-operative Association, at a recent meeting, outlined plans for a boys' and girls' sheep judging contest to be held the three days of the county fair, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, October 8, 9 and 10.

The shippers' association is offering $30, to be divided into three equal parts, ten dollars to be awarded in cash prizes in winners in Wednesday's contest, ten dollars for Thursday's contest and ten dollars for Friday's contest. Three prizes of five dollars, three dollars and two dollars will be given in each contest.

The sheep to be judged by the boys and girls in this contest will be feeder sheep selected from flocks near Coshocton. The contestants will work on a class of lambs and a class of wethers, and possibly a class of breeding ewes, to be selected from the flocks of exhibitors at the fair.

The boys and girls who will compete in the three days' contests will be divided into three classes. Wednesday's contest, to be held at 4 p. m., will be for boys and girls under 20 years of age who have had training in high school vocational agriculture. Thursday's contest, to be held at 4 p. m., will be for boys and girls 14 to 19 years of age inclusive, on January 1 of the year of the contest, who have not had training in vocational agriculture. Friday's contest, to be held at 10:30 a. m., will be for boys and girls nine to 13 years of age, inclusive, on January 1 of the year of the contest, who have not had training in vocational agriculture.

Entries to the three contests will close Saturday night, October 4, at 10 o'clock, and may be made to Irwin Porteus, manager of the Coshocton Livestock Co-operative Association, County Agent G. C. Musgrove or W. B. Miller, secretary of the fair board. Boys and girls who decide to compete may secure entry blanks at the office of County Agent G. C. Musgrove.

The directors of the county shippers' association feel that in putting on this contest they are rendering a valuable service to the future livestock men of Coshocton-co, according to Manager Porteus, and urge every boy and girl who is eligible to compete to be present nad take prt in the contests.

Entry blanks for the boys' and girls' livestock judging contest to be held by the county fair board, Tuesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, may also be secured at the county agent's office. This contest will be open to any boy or girl in the county under 19 years of age. Beef and dairy type cattle, lard type hogs and mutton type sheep will be judged. A purebred Duroc gilt, a purebred Poland gilt and a purebred Merino ewe lamb will be given as premiums to winners in this contest.

ILLINOIS PASTOR CONFESSES TO DOU BLE MURDER AS "ACT OF MERCY"

The Rev. Lawrence Hight of Ina, Ill. (right) who after a long grilling thruout the night, at dawn today confessed to the murder by poisoning of his wife (upper insert) and Wilford Sweetin, husband of Elsie Sweetin, (lower insert.) Sheriff Holcomb of Jeffersonville, Ill., Illinois, who arrested Rev. Hight, is shown at the left. Hight refused to talk time and again, but under continued questioning broke his silence at dawn, wearied by the third degree the county officials gave him. In his confession, he said he gave his wife poison in coffee and Sweetin poison in water to put them out of their suffering, believing both would die. Officers are investigating the death three years ago of a young Centerville, Ill. girl who was a member of Rev. Hight's flock, believing he may have poisoned her.
